-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 3-5, 7-9, 11, and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by MacKarvich ('573). MacKarvich teaches a manufactured home 14 that includes a support beam 16 having a medial web and a top flange, supports 18 supporting the home above ground, an anchor head 20 disposed near the ground to the side of the beam, and an anchor strap assembly that includes an elongate anchor strap 24. There is also a clamp (Figures 2 and 3) that includes a top jaw 26 having a central portion 30, the central portion includes distal and proximal ends, there is an engaging portion 40 connected to the central portion and extending downwardly, the engaging portion includes an underlying portion, the central portion includes an arcuate bearing surface that is convex relative to the flange distal edge, and there is a proximal portion 42 connected to the central portion that includes an aperture. The clamp also includes a bottom jaw 28 that has a gripping portion 40 and contact area 48, a connecting portion 46, the connecting portion has an attaching means 54 and a fastening means 50, and there is a fastener 56 between the bottom jaw and the proximal portion of the top jaw.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2, 6, and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over MacKarvich ('573) in view of Benden ('246). MacKarvich teaches a structure as stated above, but does not include an adjustment means, which is the equivalent of an aligned multi-aperture proximal portion, that is capable of adjusting the distance between the fastener and the bearing surface. Benden shows that multiple aligned apertures, or an adjustment means, allow for adjustment of structural elements (Figures 11A-11C). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include an adjustment means of multiple aligned apertures, since providing a structural element that is adjustable is considered routine in the art. This would allow for connection to other structural elements of varying dimensions.
